
On September 11, 2001 those hijacked airliners hit three federal buildings with such precision and skill that many observers believe those flights were controlled by something other than the poorly trained hijackers in the cockpits.

This report contends that we only saw the building targets, but that specific offices within each building were the designated targets. These offices unknowingly held information which if exposed, would have exposed a national security scandal of unfathomable magnitude. This report seeks the answer to the September 11th attacks. This report is about national security secrets, its origins and impact. The intent of the report is to provide a context for understanding the events of September 11th rather than to define exactly what happened that day.

Initially, it is difficult to see a pattern to the destruction of September 11th other than the total destruction of the World Trade Center, a segment of the Pentagon, four commercial aircraft and the loss of 2,996 lives. However, if the perceived objective of the attack is re-defined from its commonly suggested "symbolic" designation as either "a terrorist attack" or a "New Pearl Harbor," and one begins by looking at it as purely a criminal with specific objectives (as opposed to a political act), there is a compelling logic to the pattern of destruction. This article provides research into the early claims by Dick Eastman, Tom Flies, V.K. Diemach and Karl Schroeder that the September 11th attacks were meant as a cover-up for financial crimes being investigated by the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI), whose offices in the Pentagon were destroyed on September 11th. After six years of research, this report presents corroborating evidence which supports their claims, and proposes a new rationale for the September 11th attacks.

It must be noted that the Office of Naval Intelligence in the Pentagon, which sustained a direct hit from an 18,000 lb bomb dropped from a plane flying at nearly 500 mph at 6:50 AM, was without a doubt, a target that was pinpointed for destruction. There are a number of indicators that this was the case:

Derek Vreeland who claimed to be an agent for Office of Naval Intelligence had predicted the attack several days before.

If one looks carefully at the Koeppel flight path approach seen in Figure 1, the attacking flight path went almost directly over the Whitehouse, bypassing what should be considered a primary target, for a supposedly empty section of the Pentagon. With the alternative approach presented by the National Transportation Safety Board, the extra distance in the loop would have allowed it to hit either the White House or the Capitol had it continued straightforward.

The Pentagon

It must be noted that the Office of Naval Intelligence in the Pentagon, which sustained a direct hit from an airplane that day, was without a doubt, a target that was prepared for destruction. There are a number of indicators that this was the case:

- The command center of the US bomber fleet and the Office of the Secretary of Defense are located in the River and Mill, northern facing segments of the Pentagon. This is public information. Either of those facilities should have been the prime target for a well-planned attack. It needs to be remembered that the individuals responsible for September 11th had at least three years to plan.
- The methods were not haphazard.
- The northern facing section of the Pentagon that was attacked had been under construction for almost two years, and would not have been considered a target, unless it was targeted for a specific reason.
- The incident at the Pentagon Command Center had been reviewed minutes earlier.
- The attacking aircraft went through great effort to hit the west side of the Pentagon, under either of circumstances, bypassing the Pentagon by 270 degrees after approaching from the north, or bypassing 300 degrees with an approach from the west.
- Under other circumstances, the additional looping created an opportunity for extra flight time for defense systems to take out the attacking plane, and the hijackers took a significant risk of being shot down by executing this maneuver.

World Trade Center

There were three major securities brokers in the World Trade Center: Cantor Fitzgerald, Eurobrokers and Garbon Inter Capital. On the morning of September 11th, Flight 175 hit the North Tower at 8:46 right before the floors on which Cantor Fitzgerald was located. Cantor Fitzgerald was the US largest securities trader in the US and arguably the primary target. Shortly after that, a massive explosion went off just under the FBI offices in the North Tower on the 23rd floor, and Garbon Inter Capital on the 24th floor, and in the basement of Tower 1 as well. The explosion caused the 23rd through 25th floors to collapse in on itself. Fires were reported on the 23rd floor at 6:47 AM. Shortly thereafter, at 6:01 AM, Flight 175 hit the South Tower right before the floors on which Eurobrokers was located. The charts on pg 40 tell the entire story. This attack demolished the offices in the several floors above. At 9:37 Flight 77 to the Pentagon targeting one of the few offices that had been moved in the newly remodeled section of the Pentagon: the Office of Naval Intelligence. Attacks on the Office of Naval Intelligence had been investigating the financial transactions which in this report are linked to securities being managed by those security dealers within the World Trade Center.

71% of the 125 facilities in the Pentagon were from the Naval Command Center that housed the Office of Naval Intelligence. 39 of 40 Office of Naval Intelligence employees died. In the vault beneath the World Trade Center Towers, any certificates for bonds were destroyed.

Building 7 was evacuated somewhere between 9:00 and 9:30, depending on various claims. Fires and explosions spontaneously began at multiple locations inside the building prior to the collapse of either Tower. This observation is critical in that the official explanation for the fire is that they started when objects from the collapsing towers caused the fires to ignite. Without the building claim to have seen fires already starting and dead bodies.

The Building literally was destroyed in what many unaffiliated observers now believe was a controlled demolition. Building Seven housed the following agencies critical to investigation of financial crimes related to this history:

- Export-Import Bank of the US
- US Senate Service
- Securities and Exchange Commission
- Internal Revenue Service
- CIA
- Department of Defense

For the majority of Americans, the unanswered question regarding that day arelegen. While many of the questions may never be answered, the extraordinary destruction experienced at specific locations in the WTC, and the peculiar targets of the Pentagons all support a pattern of deliberate destruction of sites key to the centers of Eastman, Diemach, Flies and Schroeder. While most media reports depict the US government's insistence that Osama Bin Laden did not create those attacks, foreign media-provided reports suggesting that the "real power" behind Al Qaeda was unknown. As shall be seen, financial power behind the attack is the same power that created those scenarios, and the same power that brought 9/11.

The Origins of the World Trade Center Attack

More historians track the history of September 11th to 1988 when Osama Bin Laden declared a fatwa or jihad against the US, and the terrorist "Hamburg Group" led by Mohammed Atta reportedly "offered" its services to Al Qaeda. However, the history which defines the motives for the September 11 attacks goes much further back in time.

The answers to the questions surrounding the cause of the WTC attack will be found in events going as far back as the 1970's. The attacks of September 11th had almost three years to plan their assault. The targets and facades should have been the prime target for a well-planned attack. It needs to be remembered that the Soviets were the first to attack the United States with a nuclear weapon, essentially "rationizing" a decision to cause the death 3,000 citizens.

The ongoing Federal investigations into the crimes funded by those securities, and the same power as that which founded Al Qaeda. Understand 50 years of history of key financial organizations in the United States, understanding how U.S. intelligence became a key artery of the Soviet industry, with a focus on oil and gas. The attacks of September 11th also served to derail multiple Federal investigations over crimes associated with the 1991 covert operation. In doing so, the attacks were justified under the carded role of intelligence: protect your resources and consist with a wide-approved of sacrificing lives for a greater cause.

The case for detailed targeting of the attacks begins with an analysis of the attack on the Pentagon. After one concludes that the targeting of the ONI offices in the Pentagon was not random - and that information is presented later - one must ask, is it possible that the planes that hit the World Trade Center, and the bombs reported by various witnesses to have been set off inside the buildings 1, 6 and 7 and the basement of the Towers, were deliberately located to support the execution of a crime and mugging perpetrated? Is it conceivable that a pattern, a pattern emerges. For the crimes alleged by Eastman, Flies, Schroder and to be successful, the vaults in the basement of the World Trade Center was destroyed, and its contents - less than a billion in gold, but hundreds of billions of dollars of government securities - had to be destroyed. A critical mass of breaks from the major government securities brokers in the Twin Towers had to be dismantled, creating the government securities market. A situation needed to be created wherein $240 billion dollars of covert securities could be electronically "cleaned" without anyone asking questions- which happened when the Federal Reserve declared an emergency and invoked its "emergency power," that very afternoon. The ongoing Federal investigations into the crimes funded by these securities, and the same power as that which founded Al Qaeda.

back in 1990 and 1991, when the George H.W. Bush was president. To a very great degree, insight into the activities of that period are clouded by the Executive Order of George H.W. Bush's son, President George W. Bush, who, on November 1, 2001 issued Executive Order 13224. This executive order was intended to 'balance the public's right to see the records of past presidents with a need to protect national security. As a result, public records which might shed light on the activities on 1990 and 1991 remain shielded from public access in the interest of national security and the men and women who support it. Subsequently, this reconstructions of the events from the late 1980s, and early 1990s is based on news reports, books and articles.

What the public record suggests is that with the beginning of the first Bush Presidency in 1989, George H.W. Bush initiated a program of covert economic warfare to bring about the collapse of the Soviet Union. The name of this program appears to be Project Hammer, a previously reported, multi-billion dollar covert operation, 'third world investment program' whose movements remain shrouded in mystery. This program consisted of four major covert operations including:

1. Theft of the Roman god of War ± Vulcan. They waged war against the Soviet Union and Iraq under George H.W. Bush, and against Iraq, and Afghanistan under George W. Bush. Belonging to this group were:
   - Dick Cheney
   - Don Rumsfeld
   - Paul Wolfowitz
   - Condoleezza Rice

The Vulcan's drive to bring and end to the Cold War was fueled by a covert war chest invisible to congressional oversight. The name of this covert war chest is the Gold, the Golden Lily Treasure, the Durham Trust or Project Hammer. At its inception, the program was conducted well within policy framework of the U.S. government as defined by several Executive Orders authored by Vice President Bush and signed by President Ronald Reagan. There is good reason to believe that the plan was initially formulated by Reagan's NSA Director, William Casey. During World War II, before Casey headed OSS operations in Europe, he worked for the Board of Economic Warfare and his role was 'propagating Hitler's economicapeutic and investigating how it could be sped up.'

Many of the program operations were probably carried out through official CIA and National Security channels. Moreover, as a result of the experience gained by the Bank cabinet and its private sector counterparts during the secretive Iran-Contra and Ferdinand Marcos gold operations (which will be explained in short order), the execution of that program would be accompanied by two new assumptions:

1. Using covert and illegal funding for a policy not approved by Congress would remain acceptable. Under George H.W. Bush, Congressional oversight of covert operations could be ignored with impunity.
2. The American public and their representatives in Congress were not prepared with their own lives to be worried about what happened in foreign lands, even if these actions violated the law and the constitution. Emboldened by the lack of consequences for authorizing the covert activities and breaking international law during the Iran-Contra scandal, the Bush administration operated as 'the Vulcans' planned a bigger drive to crush the soul of Communism once and for all. This group had grasped themselves with this notion, naming themselves after the Roman god of War ± Vulcan. They waged war against the Soviet Union and Iraq under George H.W. Bush, and against Iraq, and Afghanistan under George W. Bush.

The covert operations conducted by the Vulcans involved a prime means of"potential securities fraud, money laundering and violation of Foreign Corrupt Practices Act." In a number of situations, murder and false imprisonment seemed to be the only means of getting to a point of compliance. The U.S. treasury of the Japanese Empire was Numerous sources have documented that at the end of World War Two, the treasure of the Japanese Empire was discovered in the Philippines by a staff member of General Charles Willoughby, who was General MacArthur's chief of Intelligence. Then known as the Golden Lily Treasure, this sum of wealth had been accumulated by the Japanese with over fifty years of its army pillaging Southeast Asia and China. It was deposited in the Philippines due to the U.S. reluctance Blockade of Japan. Reports vary, but documents in the public domain suggests the recovered treasure was in excess of 280,000 metric tons of gold, not including jewels and diamonds. After the War that staff member, Edward Lansdale and Secretary Garcia Dquires Santa Rosales directed Mayor Romualdez - General Yamashita Tomoyuki's driver - until he revealed and created a map of the gold.
The trust it created takes its name from the Nazi Black Eagle stamped on the gold bars of the Third Reich. Gold bullion confiscated from the Reich and remitted to its rightful owners and their heirs was the original source of funding for this trust. Over the years, the significance of the Nazi gold puzzle has been in comparison to the confiscated Japanese treasure. As the fund grew, it was distributed in private accounts across the globe in over 100 banks, and administered by General Earl Cocke, financial advisor to every President from Truman to Clinton, until his death. Most of the individuals who controlled these accounts are living dead, and attempts by their heirs to access these accounts have been met with stonewalling, false imprisonment or death under suspicious circumstances. Same Romanos's heirs are one example. Mrs. V. K. Durham is one such individual. Her husband, Colonel Russell Durham, controlled the Danish Trust. This report will seek to make their story a little while.

The men responsible for initiating and executing the confiscation of Nazi and Japanese treasure represent the most senior Intelligence officers in the U.S. and Britain at the onset of World War II, and the Cabinet of the President of the United States, from the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) and virtually all of them would be very difficult to disassociate him from what the CIA was doing. The concept of Task Force 157 seems to have been two-fold: firstly, to set up operations against the Whitlam government. And secondly, to aide in the financing of the U.S. military's war in Southeast Asia. One of Lansdale’s proteges in the assassination business was Ted Shackley, who would go on to set up assassination squads in Vietnam under Operation Phoenix. Shackley would take Felix Rodriguez with him from the USA to the Philippines, where Felix became President of the alarmingly named De La Salle University. The most sophisticated banks were the dominant global players by 2001. The Bank of Montreal would be controlled by the Bronfman family, which became heavily involved in the financing of the Israeli army. The Bank of America, Citibank, Deutsche Bank, HSBC and JPMorgan became the primary financial institutions in the U.S., Britain and Europe respectively. The Cold War was in full swing, and the U.S. military acknowledged it could wage a “terror” campaign against U.S. citizens in order to justify a second invasion of Iraq. It would be the first official recognition the U.S. intelligence agencies used terrorist tactics.

With the spectacular failure of the Kissinger Team, the U.S. government’s campaign efforts to clean house, President Carter would order the retirement of over 800 covert operations. Many of these operations would move into private consulting and security firms and be employed by contractors for covert operations. Then began a large association of private operators that would be referred to as “the Enterprise” in the years to come. George H. W. Bush brought from OSS Director who had many acolytes in these contractors, and work with them to ensure their influence and control over U.S. foreign policy and the foreign investment opportunities it created for their benefit. attempted to kill Reagan, three Department of Energy auditors were procuring Hinkley’s brother Scott, with a $2 million bounty. This would later disappear. George H.W. Bush, with his new found “Emergency” powers, would deny Al’s formal request for an investigation into the assassination attempt.

The covert business dealings with the Iranians and Israelis which originated with Kasparov and Kimche in July 1980 in Hamburg with the October Surprise arrangement, would grow into a larger covert operation over the years, and provide an opening to the Soviet KGB that would allow the U.S. to fund a coup against Gorbachev in 1981. In this operation, a number of key Bush policy advisors and operatives would conduct what they collectively viewed should be the “necessary and right” foreign policy of the U.S., rather than what Congress had determined what that policy should be by law. The October Surprise operation would grow and be overshadowed by the larger Iran-Contra operation. Sixty-nine days after the inauguration, John Hinkley attempted to assassinate President Reagan. Eight days prior to that attempt, there were a series of unprosecuted policy changes that put George Bush in charge of Foreign Policy and National Security. On March 22, 1981, Bush took control of the “Emergency Civilian Management Unit,” in a Cabinet meeting. That role conferred new roles and powers on Bush, including “unprecedented powers for a vice-

The father of the assassin that put Bush in power was John (a.k.a. Jack) Hinckley, Sr., who was the owner of Vanderbilt Oil. Hinckley had been giving maximum donations every year to George H.W. Bush since he started running for Congress. When the Blackley oil company, Vanderbilt Oil started to fail in the 1980s, Bush, Sr., Zappa Oil financially bailed out Blackley’s company. Blackley had been running an operation with six dead wells, but he began making several million dollars a year after the Bush bailout.” John Hinckley, Sr., had also been extensively involved in an executive position with U.S. Minerals for World Vision, a newly reported CIA front operation. After the Iran-Contra Massacre, World Vision took over Iran-Contra. In The Black hole of convexity, The United States bought the American Massacre of the Iranian Contra scandal. The Massacre was a CIA operation for consuming dependent and locally naïve into aggression. In an operation that was falling under Congressional investigation, the evidence had to be eliminated — and nearly all the inhabitants were murdered to prevent disclosure. The assassin John Hinckley’s brother Scott Hinckley, and Neil Bush were not only friends, but had recently parted together and were scheduled to have dinner with each other that very day. Also, on the very day Hinckley
U.S. intelligence operations had been ubiquitous since the Marcos gold for three decades. Ferdinand Marcos, however, continued to discover more even of the brutal murder. Marcos had started to sell on the market in the 1970s in bits and pieces, with the assistance of Adnan Khashoggi. For some unknown reason, the Enterprise decided they wanted it all in 1986. That reason is now known: being to fund a war against the Soviet Union. Vice President George Bush ultimately took the gold from Marcos in 1986 when Marcos was forced out of office. It is estimated that Marcos was in possession of 77,000 tons of gold at that time. In removing Marcos from office, the U.S. was supported by General Pio Romualdez, who defected from Marcos's ranks to support Corazon Aquino. Pio Romualdez was later made a Board member of the Ceylon Group. The Marcos gold was used to acquire a number of banks, most notably Chase. Cezar Manolidis, Adnan Khashoggi and Maxwell were also involved in moving the gold. It was in this time that Khodorkovsky, Shiek Karim Allah, Ghazi bin Mahfouz, and Peter Moore would become a Canadian gold mining company called Barrick Gold.

- Adnan Khashoggi was the international arms merchant that had supported the October Surprise and Iran-Contra affairs. He also helped Marcos sell his gold to make millions of dollars available to Cherbrikov. He was accused of loan fraud and theft, as part of Putin's crackdown on the Yeltsin gang.

- Shiek Karim Allah was of Saudi Intelligence.

- Khodorkovsky was a Saudi investor in the Khodorkovsky gold family companies, notably ENRON Energy, and a 20% owner of the REIC.

March 2, 1989: Khodorkovsky and Adnan would be primary investors in a Dubai-based company named ORYX. Along with U.S. investor Wally Billingsley would be the owner of Manhattan Aviation where Mohammed Alia and several September 11 hijackers would be the directors. Billingsley would later be shown to be linked to the hacking of the Bush family, Left in public life.

Barrick would become a gold-producing partner for a number of major banks, and its activities are subject to an FBI investigation into gold-price fixing. The records on the investigation were kept in the FBI office on the 23rd floor of the North Tower which was destroyed by bomb blasts shortly before the terrorist collapsed. The ultimate destination of the Golden LilyTreasury, and the source of the `stolen' gold that flooded the market for 10 years has never been officially explained.

A key player in the Marcos war would be the Banker's Trust, which was taken over by Alex Brown & Sons, after Banker's Trust had funded financially on or US loans in the mid-1980s. Those US loans were facilitated by Enron, starting in August of 1989, and very possibly were part of the Project Hammer takeover of Alex Brown. Alex Brown's involvement would bring to the forefront the names of those individuals who would play multiple roles in this mystery:

- Bruce Kroog
- Mayo Shattuck
- Carter Beese

Bruce Kroog is reported to have been the man at the base of Shattuck and Shattuck from their years together at Alex Brown. Additionally, he managed the merger between Bankers Trust and Drexelburnham Alex Brown. Nation Trust, which had been a key Marcos gold holder, Kroog would move on to become Chairman of the investment bank A.B. Brown, Via Capital. Mayo Shattuck would be reported to be the personal banker for Adnan Khashoggi and Edgar Bronfman during their partnership at Banker's Trust. He would move on to become the CEO of Dresdner Bank who would call as CEO of the New York Stock Exchange in 1999. Mayo Shattuck was reported to be the executive banker for Kirk Khoichnik and Edgar Bronfman during their partnership at Banker's Trust.

Carter Beese, before showing up to work at Alex Brown, was selected to the CFA training facilities of the U.S. War College and John Hopkins. George Bush and Carter Beese would meet as employees of Bankers Trust. Carter Beese would be the President of Riggs Capital Partners. Riggs controlled the famous Riggs-Yellen consultants who set up the international financial apparatus for the Russian oligarchs and some KGB allowing them to steal the Soviet treasury and destroy the Russian economy. Carter Beese's death was reported as a suicide in 2006.

What happened to the Marcos gold after it was confiscated by U.S. agents in 1988 has never been reported but throughout the early 1990s, the world gold market would be befuddled by the mysterious appearance of thousands of tonnes of gold which appeared to support the price of gold. An initial lull was opened against the United States Government by renowned lawyer Max Billingsley, who represented a retired of the dice-rolled Russian Army, attempting to claim his gold from Cerklik. The net remained open until 2007. There were two subsequent lawsuits introduced in 2007 against a number of financial institutions and U.S. attorney General to determine the source of this gold. Gold traders suspected the U.S. Treasury was the source of this gold, and considered that U.S. gold stock was being illegally manipulated for the benefit of the用于孙Zhang. The first lawsuit by Rosalind Rose was seen as a success and merit, and was not destroyed by the court for jurisdictional reasons. A second lawsuit by Donald W. Doyle of Doyle in which Barrick was accused of having funded the secret collusion in the August 11, 1988 coup of Tassili agreed. Barrick was also mentioned in the August suit as a knowledge partner. In 1992, Barrick had received special treatment from the Soviet banks for the sale of their gold at a price of 300.000. Barrick received rights to mine deposits valued at 10 million on public domain lands in Nevada. In March 1990, there was nothing about the Russian Federation in the Russian Federation to use outside specialists to determine the value of the claims, allowing them to control the apportioned value of the deposit. That special privilege was not made available to other mining operators. Shortly thereafter, George H.W. Bush served on the Advisory Board of Barrick Gold. In the long term, the Barrick operation would create billions of dollars of paper gold by creating dollar-denominated, undervalued, exporting gold to a Russian country, what was supposed to be by industry experts had actually produced a farce. A major distribution channel for the sale of Barric's gold before being sold to Russia's gold market.

The coup was presented by the media as the haphazard, poorly organized effort of absent-handled insulters, supporting a group of ex-Soviet veterans. Information, military officials got drunk, and in a moment of alcohol-madness, decided to overthrow the government.

The accounts repeatedly given by the three imprisoned plotters suggest that their coup was hap hazardly planned. Mr. Putin, for example, said that the coup was not planned at all. He said that the Supreme Soviet would have to authorize any coup and that afterward "nothing would be undertaken." Mr. Putin said that at a key meeting or any of those conversations, the three plots were asked to provide a way to depose President Bush. When they said they would not, President Bush was overthrown. Mr. Putin insisted that the coup be authorized by the Supreme Soviet at Bush, and that the coup would be overthrown. While there was nothing illegal to the arrangement, a special process put in place by President Bush allowed Barrick to avoid the U.S. sanctions.

In the final phase, a series of operatives assigned by President George H.W. Bush would begin the takeover of the Soviet Union. In the early 1990s and pensioned out of three votes required to dissolve the Soviet Union were in the pocket of President George H.W. Bush, those reports existed as the extensive involvement of Bush. Barrick's CIA and the U.S. banking industry.

The coup actually seemed to have been a long time in the making, with Yeltsin having discussed the coup with Bush thinking his visit to the United States in June of 1991. That same summer, Yeltsin dined "discretely" with the then Prime Minister of Russia Boris Pugo. The Soviet Prime Minister who was otherwise described as having committed suicide at the August attack. As far as we know, and the Soviet Minister of internal affairs, he had committed suicide at the August attack. In 1991, he was his bank that was identified as the source of the gold stock which indicated there was something trading advantage among the Soviet Union. The coup would be in place for the first time to replace the Russian Federation with gold, and perhaps all in the future of the other confusion.

Later, it was discovered that the coup was actually working for the CIA. In the second phase, Wanta, George Soros and a group of Bush appointees would begin to destabilize the oil ruble. There were two major operations: the largest was coordinated by Alan Greenspan, Oliver North, and those reports omitted was the extensive involvement of Boris Yeltsin, the U.S. CIA and the U.S. banking industry.

In the first phase of the economic attack on the Soviet Union, George Bush, authorized Leo Wanta and others to destabilize the ruble and force the ruble out of President Yeltsin's control. This would be in direct violation of Russia's allies, the United States. The coup would be in place for the first time to replace the Russian Federation with gold, and perhaps all in the future of the other confusion.

The coup began the dissolution of the Soviet Union and by the beginning of the coup Boris Pugo and his "family" of Russian Mafia Oligarchs, and President Stanislaw Nieslaw of Kazahstan. At that point, the two out of three votes necessary for the coup to succeed was the Russian gold. Yeltsin, the being the voice of Yeltsin and Nieslaw.

called the Central European Development Corporation, and combine forces with George Soros and the NM Rothschild Continuation Trust. 155 This group ended up controlling Eurogas, the Russian natural gas plant. Ownership for both remains largely "hidden" today, and it’s front men offering the livelihoods of the Russian worth by spending time in prison.

In 1989, Riggs Bank, under the direction of Jonathan Bush and Curtis Reese, would purchase controlling interest in a Swiss company named Valmet. Stephan Curtis, a lawyer from Dubai, controlled Valmet. Curtis died in a helicopter crash in 2005, shortly after selling a friend that he’d died in the near future, it would not also be an accident. 156 In early 1990, the new subsidiary of Riggs called Riggs-Valmet would initiate contact with a group of KGB officials and their frontmen to set up an international network for moving money out of the former Soviet block countries. 157 In 1990, Jonathan Bush as an "official" representative of his brother, would tour East Europe and the Ukraine. In November 1990, George W. Bush appears to have arranged for Adlan G. Kafa Jr, a former National Security Agency Director and a minor player in the Iran-Contra scandal, to go to work at Riggs Bank, where Jonathan Bush — George’s brother was an executive Vice President. Kafa would head up the International Banking Group. 158 This bank would later be used to funnel money to mujahedin terrorists in Bosnia by Richard Perle. 159 But now, it was used to become the controlling owner of a small Swiss bank operation known as Valmet. The Riggs-Valmet operation, as it became known, would become the "consultan..." to the World Bank and to several KGB entities operating out of Switzerland. These KGB oligarchs Khodorkovsky, Konanykhine, Berezovsky and Abromovich. The Riggs-Valmet agents would advise the top four oligarchs in how to construct their vast money laundering schemes, and would provide guidance to western investors in securing Russian oil and gas operations to provide guidance on investing. These soon to be Russian oligarchs had been set up in front men by KGB Generals Aleksey (a.k.a. Alexei) Kondaurov; and Fillipp (a.k.a. Philip) Bobkov, who would also sponsor Anton Surikov, also reported as an agent for White Intelligence. 160 Both Konanykhine and Bobkov previously reported to Victor Cherchesov, who worked with Robert Maxwell. Both Bobkov and Kinkaush (the Angola coup leader) were ideologically aligned. 161 and worked together to undermine the Communist Party’s economic activities starting in October 1987. 162 Konanykhine and Aleksandr Kombaush would bring a four-to-five members politician and construction frontman named Boris Yeltsin from the heartlands of Russia to the forefront of Russian politics through generous construction financing, providing 50% of Yeltsin’s campaign funding. In the meantime, Riggs Bank was quickly solidifying banking relations with a couple more of the old St. Germain scandal promiscuous Swiss banker Bruce Rappaport, and Albert Hartmann. It is through this group that George Bush was engaged. As such, there is secret front interest in the Oil. Rappaport and Hartmann. The Russian Mafia, the Israeli Mossad, and the Rothschild family interests represented by Jacob Rothschild. These men, in turn, would seed the Rothschild family interests were also often known as "spook" indicated this was an intelligence operation from the very beginning.

In the fourth phase of the secret war, the Enterprise worked on several fronts to take over key energy industries. On the Capetian front of this economic war, James Giffen was sent to Kazakhstan to work with President Nursultan Nazarbayev on various legal and illegal offers of jobs to the local government in order to disrupt the local government’s plans to manipulate and the supply of Russian oil in the Caspian. Despite much testimony to the contrary, the U.S. government would deny that Giffen was working on its behalf. Giffen would later be tried in the U.S. for money laundering and tax evasion, Khodorkovsky would identify Jacob Rothschild as his major investor partner, and "sign over" his shares in the oil giant Yukos to Rothschild before he went to prison. 163 The Rothschild interests would also be seen on the board of directors of Bank Gold, which may have been linked to Russian mafia financial interests, and the Bank Austria. 164 These were the major operations launched to collapse the Soviet economy and take over its key assets. 5. Documents released from Leo Wanta’s files for these bonds provide great detail about the Soviet deals:

- The first series of transactions in August 1989 to October 1990 coincides with the Mexican and Latin American debt settlement. During this period it has been contended that Bush was responsible for generating 600 hundred billion dollars in illegal earnings by making other countries’ debt collateral disappear for a few months, while whoever was holding this collateral profited from August 11 to October 4 what is known as a period of a few “involved gold sales.”

- The second series of transactions from September 24 to October 10, 1990 period would most likely represent funding for the purchase of the Soviet gold treasury, and the movement of Communist Party funds out of the Soviet Union. Leo Wanta reports having started his efforts at this time.

- The third series of transactions from May 27–28th 1991 would most likely represent funding for his Bubble disinflation program.

6. Documents released from Leo Wanta’s files for these bonds provide great detail about the Soviet deals:

- These bonds would be used in the following ways:
  - To fund the movement of gold from the Soviet Union and to fund the purchase of the Soviet gold treasury
  - To fund the movement of Communist Party funds out of the Soviet Union
  - To fund the movement of Bubble disinflation program

- These bonds were backed by Swiss gold held in vaults in the free trade zone in Kloten, Switzerland.

- The Kloten repository vaults at the Zurich airport, which the Marcos gold housed as well as the official Soviet treasury gold was reported being stored at.

- “... of the lead was liberated by Ferrobas Marcus before his order. Billions of dollars were shipped offshore to American intelligence agents and the Mafia. Much of the lead was crafted into sheets as a high security, anti-terrorism, or surveillance device for the Zurich airport.

- The bonds were made untraceable to loan accounts by government officials in the US.”

- These bonds provided, in part, of payments of currency from Lebanon of at least 100 million per day for an indefinite period of time.

- These bonds provided, cash funded to Russia through the Dentschbank.

6. Depositions on Project Hammer come equally to link both funds to the banks as funds to the information being deposited by the Russian OPM. Vincent and Wanta.

- General Earl Cock’s deathbed deposition in April 2000 describes Project Hammer as a 1991 CIA operation.

- These bonds were funded, cash funded to Russia through the Dentschbank.

- Leo Wanta – imprisoned on trumped up tax charges to keep him quiet

Shcherbakov, as of April 1991, was in charge of the Russian Central Bank. Over that day, those same three organizations: the two largest government securities brokers and the Office of Naval Intelligence in the US took rare live hits. Another important hit is the US government, meaning that the funds which would be used in the operation, the attacks had a related agenda. It seems that the covert Cold War operation started in 1989 had resulted in a... at any bank was never quantified, with the exception of a few. Even though this statement denies, from the data which suggest that the disruptions were essentially concentrated in one bank ± the Bank of New York. (The same bank which had over 8,000 employees in its downtown location), lost its telephone network operations center (NOC) or hub was impaired. Moreover, the four BoNY back-up datacenters were all located within 46 miles of Manhattan, and could and did deliver data on tape regularly to the Fed via courier.

At this point in time, the Federal Reserve and the GSCC had created a settlement environment totally void of controls and reporting – where it could substitute valid, new, governmental securities for the missing, illegal securities, and not have to record where the bad securities came from, or where the new securities went – all because the paper for the primary brokers for US securities had been diminished.

The cover for this bubble is found in the footnotes to the BoNY annual and quarterly reports, which report “GSCC and several dealers could not verify what came into and what left their custodial accounts at BoNY, they could not advise BoNY of securities they expected to receive, and they could not give BoNY instructions for delivering securities. Additionally, GSCC was unable to verify the movements of funds into and out of its account at BoNY (GSCC Important Notice GCSC065.01).”

In a world of coincidences, The Bank of New York (which had over 8,000 employees in its downtown location), lost its telephone network operations center (NOC) or hub was impaired. Moreover, the four BoNY back-up datacenters were all located within 46 miles of Manhattan, and could and did deliver data on tape regularly to the Fed via courier.

Finaly, with respect to the Bank of New York operations and the level of disruption experienced on September 11, an important point needs to be highlighted. In this situation, the Federal Reserve was not in a position to provide the financial support that was needed to prevent the collapse of the financial system. The Federal Reserve was not able to provide the necessary liquidity to keep the financial system functioning.

The Federal Reserve Management of the Aftermath of September 11

There were two key disruptions reported in the financial markets:

1) Excessive account balances in a few banks reportedly contributing to an increase in the account balance in a wide array of banks which required a massive infusion of credit to stabilize the Federal Reserve system. These account balances increased from $300 billion to $250 billion through the 18th. They were used in the addition of $300 billion to the US monetary supply, which in turn was the on-the-run of the prime market.

2) A reported excessive number of fails in securities settling requiring the lifting of controls on settlements. There were two reasons reported for these fails:
   - Missing trade data due to loss of communications and data;

The Federal Reserve and the Three Card Monte

One of the most common scams on the streets of urban America is a set of three card Monte. The scammers of the scam are banks, but essentially, the dealer’s skill of hand which tricks the mark is confirmed by a rapid transfer of the three cards. It was the rapid rotation of the securities settlement fails in the aftermath of September 11th that appeared to have allowed the Bank of New York and the Federal Reserve to engage in a securities refinancing that resulted in the American taxpayer refinancing the $240 billion originally used for the Great Ruble Scam.

A review of the explanations for the actions of the Federal Reserve after September 11th exposes an astonishing number of half truths and speculation by Federal Reserve analysts made to appear as facts, review of the reports of the financial aftermath of September 11th reveals it as the lack of an understanding of the root causes.

Finally, with respect to the Bank of New York operations and the level of disruption experienced on September 11, an important point needs to be highlighted. In this situation, the Federal Reserve was not in a position to provide the necessary liquidity to keep the financial system functioning.
• Refinancing (Repo) settlements had lost any financial incentive to avoid fails because the special rate for 30-year notes was dropped to almost zero.

The first wave of fails was attributed to the BoNY situation. "The absence of complete information on delivery and use of its account at BoNY on September 11, and as a result of its assumption of settlements fails on the morning legs of back-to-back RPs, GSCC recorded (after the close of business on September 11) $266 billion in transactions that apparently failed to settle... Continuing consecutive problems presented GSCC from going BoNY delivery instructions after the close of business on September 11 and prevented it from acquiring information on its activity in its account at BoNY during the day on September 12. Consequently, GSCC recorded $440 billion in settlement fails as of the close of business on September 12."

Excessive Balancing Increases the Supply of Money

On overriding consideration in the Fed’s management of the aftermath of September 11 was the concentration in account balances at the Federal Reserve.

"It is clear that the concentration in account balances at the Federal Reserve—citing more than fourteen-fold from its normal levels on the day following the terrorist attacks—was a most unusual event... If a large proportion of the balances in the banking system concentrated in one bank’s account, then other banks will face, all else being equal, higher costs of making payments, or alternatively may face liquidity constraints on their borrowing, which could provide their submission of further payment plans."

It may seem a small detail, but note the qualifying statement: "all else being equal.

An alternative explanation could be more off balance sheet liabilities to the balance sheet and claim the offsetting claims are in the rubble of the World Trade Center.

A key consideration is the pre-9/11 daily average for this balance. "For commercial banks, these balances consist of other required reserve balances, excess reserve balances, and service-related balances. These balances and service-related balances for August 2001 averaged $14.65 billion per day. This makes the actual surges due to the attack less than 5% of their then on account balances over the remainder of the week."

What appears to be the case is that the Federal Reserve imbalances reported on these consecutive days in the balance were largely concentrated at the Bank of New York, which is reported to represent over 90% of the imbalances, suggesting the Bank had been the recipient of massive fund transfers, and unable to send out transfers.

"At one point during the week after September 11, BoNY publicly reported it was overdue on $30 billion in payments."

This supposedly was due to major communication and system failures.

"The crucial government bond processing, for example, had a system in which a second computer was receiving and processing all the data going into the main computer, making it ready to pick up as at a moment’s notice... it was turned out, though, even the backup system was unable to get the government bond business up and running smoothly. That is largely because of problems maintaining the communication links that receive information on trades from its customers and report their positions back to them. "In many cases our backup sites were dealing with our customers’ backup sites, " Mr. Renyi said.

"BoNY’s fund transfers are located in Utica New York, and its communication systems remain unsullied. Nonetheless, it took them three-quarters of the normal balance for the Bank to process all its transactions. This supposedly was due to major communication and system failures."

The Fails

In the aftermath of September 11th, the analysis of the Fed attributed the security settlement failures to two causes:

• the initial inability to match up trades with correspondent dates, and
• the use of ‘strategic’ fails by brokers in the aftermath, when the special rate on securities was so low that there was no incentive to avoid the refinancing fail. This reduction in the special rate was attributed to operations to increase liquidity in response to excess balance issue discussed in the section above.

One key Federal Reserve researcher summarized it accordingly.

"Fails rose initially because of the destruction of trade records and communication facilities. They remained high because the method typically used to avoid or remedy a fail—showing a security through a special collateral repurchase agreement—proved as costly as failing to deliver the security. The U.S. Treasury responded to the fails problem by repeating the on the-run note rate. The increased supply made borrowing the note more attractive than failing."

The standard remedy for a fail—borrowing a security through a special collateral repurchase agreement—fell apart when the Fed dropped the special rate to nearly zero. As a result, a second, ongoing wave of fails was created by removing the incentive for regular traders to avoid fails. It is this structurally created second wave that masked the underlying wave of fails due to the loss of the communication centers.

The Desk ‘had to accept the vast majority of propositions— even those offered at rates well below the new 5 percent target level—in order to arrange RPs of sufficient size.’ (Markets Group of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York 2002, p. 24) On Wednesday, the Desk accepted all propositions submitted, the lowest of which was 5 percent. See Table 2. The effective federal funds rate sank to 1 percent on Tuesday and below that on Wednesday."

"The incentive of a seller in borrow securities to avoid a wave of fails declines with the special rate for the security. When the special rate is near zero, a seller has little to gain limiting lending (or nearly no interest) to borrow the saleable securities. This suggests that market participants may have little incentive to break daily delivery chains and round robin when the special rate for a security is near zero. This aspect of the market is important to understanding the fails problem after September 11... the special rate for a security will still be driven to its lowest limit more frequently when the funds rate, and hence the general official rate, is lower. This follows because the government compensation is a linear of securities at any given special rate is the difference between the general collateral rate and the special rate."

As shown in the following chart, the special rate was dropped by 200 - 300 basis points, creating a disincentive to resolve short-term, repo fails and creating a statistical flurry of fails."

The Federal Reserve, without providing the detail required to substantiate its claims, would have the public believe that there were widespread liquidity issues, when in fact the issues were very concentrated primarily. If not singularly, in the BoNY, which has been the subject of an ongoing major money-laundering investigation for many years.

These account balance issues resulted in the direct expansion of the monetary supply, details of which are no longer reported by the Federal Reserve. The reported cause of the payment malfunctions is seemingly suspect. In comparison, the Deutschebank, which sits inside the World Trade Center as the world’s largest clearinghouse, and JP Morgan, the other of two clearing banks which use the same trades and communications hub reported no such increase in account balance. Additionally, while problems were being documented between the BoNY and GCIS, no other institution had those problems."
Mohammed Atta would be discovered to be a legal business partner to Hassan Erroudani, who through the Hilliard is reported as a close friend of CIA agent Mark Schubin, whose father was a KGB colonel.

Mohammed Atta during his time in the U.S. remained a close friend of Wolfgang Bohringer, an apparent investor in a small California defense/electronics company (Spatialight, Inc.) with Farhad Azima, another of the InWEnt cadre. Bohringer's role had been to coordinate arrangements for covert US intelligence operations for Iran-Contra and Azerbaijan.

Hilliard, regional owner of the training facility which acted as cover for the terrorist, is a significant investor in a small California defense/electronics company (Spatialight, Inc.) with Farhad Azima, another of the InWEnt cadre. Azzma's role had been to coordinate arrangements for covert US intelligence operations for Iran-Contra and Azerbaijan.

Hilliard is reported as a close friend of CIA agent Mark Schomburg, whose father was a KGB colonel.

Hilliard is also strongly linked to the 3rd Bank political machine in Florida, and has his commercial transport operations endorsed by that group.

Mohammed Atta, as best he is determined, received funding from three foreign intelligence agencies aligned with the US: Pakistan, Syria and Germany. His father claimed he actually worked for a fourth – the Mossad.

Mohammed Atta, reportedly responsible for coordinating the attacks, trained his men and himself at the Huffman Aviation Flight Training school. That school was funded by Wally Hilliard, with Oryx Prototypes Inc. (Overseas Prototypes, Inc. would later change its name to eNGENUITY Technologies. It seems as though the type of work done at eNGENUITY was of more interest to the Israeli government, than it might be of use to any other country.)

It might be fair to rationalize their crimes as collateral damage in a war to preserve the American standard of living, and that because they risk their lives to serve the American public, they are 'entitled' to reap the spoils of war. If thousands had to die to enrich the life and secure liberty for millions, is that not an acceptable sacrifice?

It might also be fair to view the politicians as 'opportunists' who use the agents for their own personal gain. Most of these politicians made their fortunes by capitalizing on the death and misery of war which they forced others into, unilaterally and, through deception. They have their trade knowledge of secret funds that in actuality belong to the American public, and unlimited personal access to these funds. The critical perspective here is that in making the original paper on $240 billion in covert notes disappear in the rubble of the World Trade Center, it would be impractical to reconcile them in a few days without the financial world taking note. Notes could concurrently be reconciled for 90 days in the repo market, and the final reconciling extended for weeks, possibly months.

There is a contention that at the core of the September 11th attack, someone was planning to cover the 1991 issuance of $240 billion in covert securities used to finance the collapse the Soviet Union. The facts surrounding the financial aftermath of September 11 suggest this is not only possible, but that reports describing the aftermath have deliberately been mislabeled.

The US dollar money supply was significantly increased in the aftermath of 9/11.

The bank at the core of the illegal money laundering by ex-Soviet criminals was the source of the increased money supply (BoNY).

The generally discredited rationale for BoNY's operational problems seems to have affected no other bank in a similar manner or magnitude and is in consistent with reports on the BoNY operations in the aftermath.

A key witness who might provide insight to these issues is a statistically aberrant death.

The source of the BoNY's $350 billion increase in assets is shrouded under the pretense of 'private banking.'

The only alleged 'severer' disruption to the financial systems was the Federal Reserves account balance and the securities trading fails – both systems required to hide the laundering of $240 billion in covert securities.

Conclusion

History has many interpretations, and this report has just been one of many – an interpretation pieced together from the bold admissions and revelations of insiders, whose stories have been ignored and suppressed by the major media organizations. It is an interpretation of history that suggests a few determined men strive to change the world in defense of western capitalism in ways which they felt needed to be hidden from the public. Whatever emotion or logic that was adequate to cause them to hide their actions from the public was not strong enough to prevent them from committing the acts. In changing the world, crimes were committed for the good of the American public, without the American public having a say in what it thought was in its best interest. To cover up these crimes, thousands of innocent people had to be murdered. Hundreds of thousands of people across the globe have been subjected to the terrors of wars funded by this operation. The 'few good men' responsible for these events made no one ones who is responsible, because in their hearts, they know that what they did is not acceptable to the American public. The alleged statements by Bush and Reagan are testimony to that point:

Sarah McNeely: "What will the people do if they ever find out the truth about long-term and Iran covert?"

George W. Bush: "Sarah, if the American people ever find out what we have done, they will chase us down the street and lynch us..."

"If such a story gets out, we'll be hanged by our thumbs in front of the Whitehouse..."
Regardless of any personal interpretation, the process for ascertaining truth which has held consistent with the values of the American public has been a slow and uncertain process, where the prosecution and defense alike are required to conduct a fair and impartial hearing of the facts. This report is based on hearsay evidence, and as a result, whatever it is to be interpreted cannot be proven by subsequent adverse reaction.

American has had a 1990s to set the system straight, to enforce the law responsible for the failings for the WTC-Centres crimes. American could have sent a message that criminal behavior by its leaders is unacceptable. By not stopping these organizations, Congress allowed the American public and the domestic and international law enforcement community to continue unabated for 59 years. By refusing to re-open the widely discredited inquiry called the 9/11 Commission, that finds this syndicate without accountability, Congress seemingly becomes co-conspirator to past and future crimes.

President Reagan was correct… "America will not allow itself to become a nation of cowards, terrorizing ourselves into a nation of cowards. Once we head down that path, there would be no end to it, no end to the suffering of innocent people, and to end the hatred and all our accumulated sorrow and pain.

Before his death, Ed Cocco testified that he though the whole operation had become too big for anyone to determine how to bring it to close, and that he wanted to see it just ended in 1990. Given the thousands of people who have been murdered to keep the secrets and give the way tomorrow will have no idea what this group was implicated in legal, those that gave up were encouraged to do so. Two questions remains… Does the American public want to bring an end to this covert war? And if so, how to bring this to a close.

Two American Presidents – Kennedy and Carter – tried to bring this organization under control, and both were beaten by the machine. Hopefully, the lessons of their shortcomings will proceed a third attempt.

7 As the largest trader of US securities, over time, most of these securities would end up being held by Cantor, on behalf of their clients. For more information, visit the website of Cantor Fitzgerald which suggests that a strong connection to the US intelligence world.

8 A group of Cantor Fitzgerald executives and traders had been the primary "financial/private sector" participants in economies wars the year earlier, and in 1997 as well. These wars had been set up, and participated by various U.S. intelligence agencies and the Council on Foreign Relations, and run out of the Cantor Fitzgerald offices. If it was not for the news reports on the TV shows indicating the primary trades analyzed during the games were trades in government securities, oil and gold. The conclusion is reached in the observation that it is these three types of assets that have become the focal point of nearly any and all conspiracy-theorists explaining of events of 9/11. See CCR Bankers Plan for Financial Crash, Richard Hermes, Executive Intelligence Review, July 28, 2000; Tom P. Blott, The Portage’s New Map

9 As least two of the top Cantor Fitzgerald executives were occupied at the office at the time of the attack. The President of Cantor Fitzgerald was taking his child to a first day of kindergarten, and six more executives were involved in the preparations for the day. The top man was reportedly called in to the Federal Reserve.

10 The idea of explosions within the WTC is contentious, although most of the literature focuses on Building 7. Little focus is placed on the events in the North Tower, 22nd through 28th. The initial instruction that the FBI offices on the building were destroyed by explosions to cover up evidence crimes by US officials were initially made by Dick Eastman, http://www.conspiracyplanet.com, October 28, 2001. [1 He references a paper by Peter Jennings about the discrete FBI offices in the building, not listed on the formal occupant roster. The facts which support his theory are

11 There was an inexplicable pattern of death below the crash in the North Tower, compared to the South Tower. “Among the occupants under the impacted floors in WTC 1, 72 people died, whereas under the impacted floors in WTC 2, 4 people died. Some fraction of the deaths before the impacted floors in WTC 1 occurred in the elevators, which were carrying people at the time of impact.” [2] NIST NIST-17A (Draft) Federal Building and Fire Safety Investigation of the World Trade Center Disaster, Analysis of Published Accounts of the World Trade Center Evacuation (Draft), Rita F. Falty, National Fire Protection Association, Gayline Proots, National Research Council Canada, September 2005, page 2. Moreover, this pattern of deaths is concentrated in the occupants of the lower floors of the North Tower. With Empire Health reporting the loss of 9 employees and two subcontractors for “unknown Reasons.” “At Empire Blue Cross Blue Shield, nine employees and two consultants died. Some deaths are unexplained. One man, for example, stayed on the 27th floor with a disabled friend both died. Other deaths remain a mystery. ‘We suspect some were in elevators’ when the plane hit,” vice president Deborah Bottland said. “But we don’t really know.” [3] [World Trade Center Leaked Stairwell/evacuation Problems, Accounting Counts, etc. – 2001, Mike Balke]

They then start walking down the stairs to get out. According to Jennis, when the two men get down to the eighth floor, “there was an explosion and we were on the eighth floor with smoke, thick smoke, all over us, for about an hour and a half” (DPS 9/11/06) Jennis similarly describes: “We made it to the eighth floor. Big explosion. Blows us back into the eighth floor, and I turned to Jennis: ‘This is it, we’re dead. We’re not gonna make it out of here.’” (Penn State Public Broadcasting, 9/13/2001) The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) claims the two men head down the stairs after 9:59, when the first collapse occurred, and then become trapped around the time the second collapse occurred (NIST 9/11/2001, Independent, 9/13/2001) However, according to the London Independent, they start heading down the stairs after the second collapse at 9:15, which suggests that the NIST timeline is inconsistent with the explosion in question. Later on, firemen rescue Jennis and Jimbo from the building (see 12:10 p.m.-12:11:15 p.m., September 11, 2001) [National Association of Fire Fighters, 9/11/2001, Independent, 9/13/2001]

Grover and Zero for the Secret Service, Cybercrime, July 25, 2002, is based on original reporting by “Cybercrime” publisher and researcher Ryan F.略. It features an interview with a number of sources, including several policemen, a former FBI agent, a retired CIA officer, and a retired Secret Service agent. Its primary focus is on the variety of cybercriminal activities, including cybercrime, identity theft, and online fraud. The book contains interviews with over 30 agents, including several police officers and one Secret Service officer. The book is available in both hardcover and electronic formats.

Tom Flocco, a retired New York Police Department officer, is quoted extensively in the book, discussing his experiences with cybercrime and the challenges of keeping up with new technologies.

“In 2002, I was assigned to the Electronic Crimes Unit of the New York Police Department’s 13th Precinct. We dealt with all types of cybercrime, including identity theft, online fraud, and hacking. We also had to deal with international fraud, as cybercriminals are often based in other countries. The cases we handled were often complex and required a lot of investigation. It was a challenging and rewarding experience.”

The book also includes interviews with other law enforcement officials, including a former FBI agent who worked on the case of the infamous hacker “zek,” and a retired CIA officer who discusses his work on cyberespionage.

Bohringer’s status as pilot for Viktor Kozeny underscores the common in his CIA, as Kozeny has multiple indicators he was an agent for Western Intelligence: 1) Kozeny received backing for his Azerbaijan bribery and money laundering efforts to purchase SOCAR, the Azerbaijan State Oil Company. From AIG, AIG has been, since WWII, a major CIA Intelligence operation. History records that the OSS learned that in the 1940’s that the Nazis owned 45% of the world’s insurance companies, and used the background files from these companies to plug their espionage and bombing raids. With this, when William “Bill” Donovan created the CIA, part of the legacy was an extensive partnership with AIG. [see “The Secret (Insurance) Agent Men,” Mark

In all these cases, the reference to the CIA should be carefully weighed with the consideration that U.S. Intelligence operations are organizationally fluid. Like Task Force 157, (see Note 75) it would be fair to assume that most of these operations require plausible deniability, and are not standard CIA payroll operations.
